Policy on Computer Use

Students wishing to use computer resources at The American University of Rome must comply with the policy and procedures set out below. A detailed computer information leaflet on how to access and use computer resources at AUR is available from the Office of Computer Services. A copy of the leaflet is also distributed as part of the orientation packet.

- No student should attempt to install software be it freeware, open source, or propriety owned, on the computers in the university computer labs without consent from the Office of Computer Services.
- Under no circumstances should students install software or freeware on university equipment that facilitates any illegal activity. This includes music and file sharing programs.

Computer network accounts

Computer network accounts are assigned to degree-seeking students on request. Study abroad students are assigned general user accounts, (see Computer Information Leaflet for further information). The following conditions apply to the use of computer network accounts assigned to degree-seeking students:

Library Resources

The AUR Library collection includes a growing library of printed books and a large collection of electronic books and journals. The Library aims to provide academic material consistent with the University's curriculum. The materials in the AUR University Library are only one part of the total materials available to AUR students. The Library acts as a portal to information available in Rome, within the local physical collection, on the World Wide Web, or in another library in Rome. Learning how to find appropriate information materials in both printed and electronic formats, and to use them properly, is important for your success at AUR and throughout your life.

Print

AUR and Roman Libraries

The American University of Rome maintains excellent relations with other libraries in Rome. Information about these libraries can be accessed through the AUR Library webpage. Their catalogs can be searched online. During the academic year, our Library staff consults with these Roman libraries on specific subjects and they can arrange for students to visit and use these libraries. Professors also guide students in their specific research and arrange for students to visit specialized libraries in Rome. Students and Faculty are encouraged to contact the Library staff for assistance in locating research materials or for additional information.

Instructional Programs

Information literacy workshops are designed to introduce students to research (for academic purposes but not exclusively) and to research paper writing. The aim of these workshops is to teach students information literacy. The workshops are designed to train students "to recognize when information is needed and have the ability to locate, evaluate, and use effectively the needed information" (American Library Association). AUR has created an online information literacy booklet for students at: <http://aurlibrary.wetpaint.com/page/Academic+Skills+for+Success+in+Scholarly+Research>

Future Developments

The AUR Library is deeply involved in creating new and innovative tools to further your research and keep you updated on a variety of topics. Some of these developments include a Library Wiki, a Blog a Course Management System and an Open Archive.

Career Development Office

AUR provides a variety of services designed primarily to assist degree-seeking students who want to explore career opportunities, develop skills for success in the workplace, and complete an internship in Rome or elsewhere. There are regular weekly office hours; appointments can be scheduled in advance and the office also operates on a 'drop-in' basis. Specific services are listed below.

Workshops for Career Planning

Four 60 minute workshops are scheduled every semester. These are interactive sessions designed to provide both the basics and a set of "tools for success" in Career Considerations, Resume/CV Preparation, Job Searching, and Interview Skills. Workshop schedules for each semester are posted on the Career Development Bulletin Board, and each workshop is announced through campus flyers, email, bulletins and class announcements.

Individual Career Planning & Counseling

Degree-seeking students are encouraged to use the Career Development Office for individual assistance in any (or all) of these areas: career information searches, web-based career testing, resume/CV preparation, general job searches, job searches through University contacts, and interview preparation.

Internship Opportunities

An internship is an experience where a degree-seeking student works for an employer and is given an opportunity to observe, participate, gain confidence and learn in a professional work setting. An internship gives you an opportunity to put theory into practice, learn outside the classroom and earn 3 credits.

If you are a full time junior or senior student in good academic standing (GPA 2.0 or above), you are eligible to apply for an internship. Consult your academic advisor for details and take advantage of the great opportunities offered to you!

Graduate School Recruiting

Throughout the academic year, graduate school representatives visit AUR to discuss their programs. AUR promotes these visits as a means to learn more about graduate schools in general as well as the specific universities that visit our campus.

Job Opportunities

The Career Development Office coordinates job matching opportunities for degree-seeking students through employer listings and job searches. Position vacancies are listed on the Career Development Bulletin Board, and the office can assist with the preparation for specific applications for job opportunities. The Career Development Office also emails all job opportunities to AUR resident students with senior standing, and to AUR graduate Alumni who have joined the Career E-Mail list.

Career Development Bulletin Board

Information about AUR's Career Development activities and specific job opportunities can be found on the designated bulletin board located at the entrance to the Computer Lab in Building A and in Building B on the ground floor.

BULLETIN BOARDS

The University posts general news and information on the electronic screen in the computer lab of Building A and bulletin boards around campus in various public spaces. Some bulletin boards are used specifically by certain offices, such as Faculty, Registrar, Student Government or Student Life.

Bulletin Board Guidelines

The following guidelines have been established for students and student organizations. Those in violation will lose bulletin board privileges and may be subject to disciplinary action.

Students and student organizations may not post signs, notices and posters anywhere on campus without prior written approval by the Student Life Office. Event or activity advertisements approved by the Student Life Office must be removed by the person or group who posted them within 24 hours after the event. All signs, notices and posters must include the identity of the sponsoring student, instructional or administrative office or student organization. Notices posted anonymously on bulletin boards will be removed.

Students and student organizations are expected to show common courtesy when posting items on bulletin boards. Existing notices should not be removed or covered to post a new item. Commercial advertising or solicitation, except for the personal and occasional sale of small items by members of the University community, must be approved by University administration. Signs, notices and posters of a commercial nature not marked as approved will be removed.

Commercial and non-commercial advertisement involving alcohol is specifically prohibited. This includes signs, notices or posters soliciting student involvement in events where the consumption of alcohol appears to be a significant part of the event.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Participation in the American University of Rome Student Government (AURSG) is a great way for you to actively contribute to the growth and development of the University. In regular meetings with the administration and Faculty, student officers represent the student body in discussions on the academic and administrative aspects of the University. Student Government representatives also serve on important committees such as the Curriculum, Library, Fairness and Calendar Committees.

The AURSG works closely with the Student Life Office and is responsible for planning and sponsoring a variety of student social and cultural activities, as well as organizing athletic events. The Student Government is given a budget every semester and student officers can manage it with a wide degree of discretion.

Student representatives in AURSG include President, Vice-President, Executive Secretary, Treasurer and Public Relations Officer as well as one representative from each of the disciplines at AUR – International Relations, Business Administration, Communications, Italian Studies, Art History and Interdisciplinary Studies. Only students in good academic standing are eligible to participate in the AURSG.

STUDENT CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Another way to be active on campus is to participate in one of the several academic or non-academic clubs at AUR. Each club serves a different purpose – whether teaching the students to run a business or promoting tolerance towards others – and adds something unique to the AUR community. All the clubs must have a staff/faculty advisor and a formal governing mission.

List of clubs includes:

- Bible Study Group
- Business Club
- Communication Club
- Culture Club
- Dance Club
- International Relations Club
- Italian Studies Club
- Reach Out Club
- Shewolves: female soccer team
- The Newman Society
- Wolves: male soccer team

STUDENT LITERARY JOURNAL

Remus is the student literary journal of The American University of Rome. Published once a year by the Department of Communication and English, the journal features fiction, non-fiction, poetry and artwork submitted by the student body. If you are interested in contributing to the publication you should contact either Prof. Paul Zinder or Prof. Lisa Colletta.

Academic Policies

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Integrity is fundamental to the academic enterprise. It is violated by such acts as borrowing or purchasing assignments, including but not limited to term papers, essays, and reports; lending to or producing assignments for others (either for or without payment); using concealed notes or crib sheets during examinations; copying the work of others and submitting it as one's own; and otherwise misappropriating the knowledge of others. Such acts are both dishonest and deceptive: the work submitted to instructors is not the work of the person whose name it bears.

In consequence, the sources from which one derives one's ideas, statements, terms, and facts, including internet sources, must be fully and specifically acknowledged in the appropriate form. Failure to do so, intentionally or unintentionally, constitutes plagiarism.

Intentional Plagiarism

Submitting a paper written by someone else—a paper written by another student, a purchased paper, or a paper downloaded from the internet--can only be construed as intentional plagiarism. So, too, is writing a paper for someone else. The evidence is nondebatable.

Such instances will be reported to the Provost, who will require the student (or students) involved to sign the following statement: "Submitting a paper written by someone else as my own work (or writing a paper for someone else) is dishonest. I understand that repeating this offense will result in my suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR." The instance will also be entered on the student's record or, for a study-abroad student, reported to the home institution. A second instance will result in suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR.

The instructor will have the option of failing in the course the student (or students) involved; averaging the zero grade of the plagiarized paper into the student's final grade; or averaging the zero grade of the plagiarized paper into the student's final grade and requiring another paper in its place.

The Improper Use of Sources

Using sources improperly or failing to acknowledge them fully and specifically may be construed as intentional or unintentional plagiarism. In such instances the instructor has latitude in determining the seriousness of the offense and the penalty: failing the student in the course; averaging the zero grade of the plagiarized paper into the student's final grade; averaging the zero grade of the plagiarized paper into the student's final grade and requiring another paper in its place; or accepting another paper in place of the plagiarized paper and dropping the zero grade. The student will also be required to attend the Writing Center for instruction in the proper use of sources.

Such instances will also be reported to the Provost and entered on the student's record or, for a study-abroad student, reported to the home institution. A second instance may result in suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR; a third instance will result in suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR.

Cheating on Examinations

Cheating on examinations in any form whatsoever — using concealed notes or crib sheets, getting help from another student, or giving help to another student — is a serious offense against academic honesty. The instructor has latitude in determining the grade on the examination and the grade for the course: the grade for the examination may be zero, the grade for the course F.

Such instances will be reported to the Provost, who will require the student (or students) involved to sign the following statement: "Cheating on an examination (or helping someone else to cheat on an examination) is dishonest. I understand that repeating this offense will result in my suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR." The instance will also be entered on the student's record or, for a study-abroad student, reported to the home institution. A second instance will result in suspension or permanent expulsion from AUR.

In all these instances students have the option of an appeal to the Academic Fairness Committee.

GRADE APPEALS

1. Students dissatisfied with their final grade in a course should meet with the instructor of the course to discuss it. When the grade at issue is a fall semester grade, they should meet as soon as possible and no more than sixty days after the end of the semester; when the grade at issue is a spring semester or summer session grade, they should meet no more than thirty days after the beginning of the fall semester.

2. Ordinarily instructors will explain how students' final grades were arrived at. If instructors' explanations do not satisfy, students will see the chair of the department in which the course in question was offered. If students and department chairs cannot agree about grades, students may request of the Provost an appeal to the Committee on Academic Fairness.

3. Students are responsible for laying out the grounds for their appeals in writing: either instructors violated institutional requirements or the criteria for grading laid out in their syllabi. Students will supply to the committee graded work from the course in their possession, department chairs will supply instructors' written explanations of how students' final grades were arrived at and any student work in instructors' possession, the Registrar will supply instructors' reports of final grades in the course and students' final examinations in the course, and the Provost will supply course syllabi and convene the Academic Fairness Committee.

4. The Academic Fairness Committee, composed of two student representatives appointed by the Student Government and two Faculty members elected by the Faculty, provides a court of appeal for students who believe they have been unfairly treated. The committee is chaired by the Provost or the Provost's designee, ex officio and non-voting except in the event of a tie. If it upholds a student's appeal, the Provost will change the student's grade to reflect the deliberations of the committee; if the appeal is denied, there is no further appeal.

When students are no longer enrolled at AUR

Department chairs will consult with instructors and send students no longer enrolled at AUR explanations of how their final grades were arrived at. If instructors and department chairs cannot agree about grades, students may request of the Provost an appeal to the Committee on Academic Fairness.

Then see above, paragraphs 3. and 4.

When instructors are no longer teaching at AUR

Department chairs will consult with instructors by email or telephone and explain to students, in person or by mail, how their final grades were arrived at. If instructors and department chairs cannot agree about grades, students may request of the Provost an appeal to the Committee on Academic Fairness.

Then see above, paragraphs 3. and 4.

ACADEMIC PROBATION

Students who fail to maintain a GPA of 2.0 for any semester will be placed on probation for one semester. The student on probation will be counseled to reduce his or her academic program in order to improve his or her GPA. In any case, the student may not register for more than 12 credits per semester while on probation. At the end of the probationary period, if the academic record is not in compliance with the standards of satisfactory progress, the student will be suspended for a minimum of one semester period. The student is considered to be maintaining satisfactory progress while on probation. However, the student on probation may not hold office in student organizations or participate in the work-study program.

ATTENDANCE POLICY

In keeping with AUR's mission to prepare students to live and work across cultures, the University places a high value on the classroom experience. As a result attendance is expected in all classes and attendance records are maintained. The University's attendance policy is as follows:

Minimum Attendance Requirement

Students must attend a minimum of 70% of a course in order to be eligible to be considered for a passing grade.

Absences

- Students will not be penalized for one absence from classes meeting once a week;
- Students will not be penalized for three absences from classes meeting twice a week;
- Students will not be penalized for four absences from classes meeting more than twice a week, as in the case of some intensive courses.

If further absences are recorded, grade penalties will be applied according to the instructor's specific attendance policy, as stated in the syllabus. If the instructor does not specify an attendance policy, there will be no grade penalty other than that attached to the minimum attendance requirement. Cases of prolonged absences caused by an emergency or a medical condition may require students to withdraw from some or all of their courses. Under such circumstances students should first consult their academic advisors.

CLASSROOM BEHAVIOR

It is the professor's ultimate responsibility to establish behavioral tone in the classroom. Guidelines on attendance, class participation, tardiness, etc. are to be outlined in the course syllabus or clearly stated by the professor in class. It is incumbent upon the student to honor these guidelines. While the professor should engage in a policy of positive reinforcement in his or her teaching practices, students must maintain a sense of decorum in the classroom conducive to a high standard of education.

AUR does not permit, for example, the use of cell phones during class. All phones must be turned off before entering the room. Students are also encouraged to take care of all personal needs outside of the classroom. Leaving and re-entering class during lectures is not allowed. Disruptions of any sort for any reason other than an emergency are considered a serious violation of classroom decorum. Repeated disturbances of this kind can have academic and disciplinary consequences.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

The academic advising program of The American University of Rome helps students define and clarify their life, career and educational goals and develop academic strategies to reach them.

It is the responsibility of both the student and his/her academic advisor to participate in the advising process equally. The academic advisor serves as a resource for course/career planning and academic progress review and as an agent of referral to other administration members as necessary. After consultation with his/her academic advisor, the student is ultimately responsible for choosing and implementing his/her academic program.

Non-Academic Policies

HARASSMENT

In order to allow the full development of a community that respects the dignity and worth of every individual, The American University of Rome will not tolerate harassment of any kind within its community. The University has the duty to protect its students, employees and agents from intimidating behaviors that detract from the quality of work and study at AUR. Harassment is used in a variety of legal contexts to describe words, gestures, and actions that tend to annoy, alarm, and abuse another person. Harassment is unethical, unprofessional, and unacceptable.

The American University of Rome encourages all students and employees to be sensitive to different cultures, lifestyles, and viewpoints. Mean-spirited words, such as racial epithets, sexual innuendo, and gratuitous references to lifestyle, or actions demeaning to human beings are unacceptable. All members of The American University of Rome community need to be aware of their right to work and study in an environment free from the pressures of harassment and intimidation.

There are many types of harassment. Harassment includes conduct that:

- Involves an expressed or implied threat to an individual's academic efforts, employment, participation in University-sponsored activities and/or personal safety;
- Has the purpose or reasonably foreseeable effect of interfering with an individual's academic efforts, employment, participation in University-sponsored activities or personal safety;
- Creates an intimidating, offensive, or hostile environment that interferes with educational pursuits, employment, and/or participation in University-sponsored activities.

Steps to follow if being subjected to harassment:

- Notify an appropriate member of the University staff who can listen, provide support, answer your questions about harassment, and discuss options. This person might be an academic advisor, the Student Life Coordinator, or Student Life Director. They can help you determine the next step.
- Try to make clear to the person harassing you that you find his/her behavior annoying, offensive, alarming, or abusive and ask that he/she stop immediately. Make your point clearly, firmly, seriously, and without apology.
- Write down what is happening to you. If it is persistent, keep a journal. Include as much factual material as possible, including direct quotes, witnesses, and/or patterns to the harassment. You might want to have your journal witnessed by another person periodically. Save any cards, letters, or notes in a secure place.
- Tell the person in writing that you object to this behavior. Describe specific things that offend you or upset you. Keep a copy of this letter.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT

It is the policy of The American University of Rome to promote a cooperative work and academic environment in which mutual respect for all University students, Faculty, and staff exists. Harassment of employees or students based upon sex is inconsistent with this objective and contrary to the University policy of equal employment and academic opportunity without regard to age, sex, sexual orientation, citizenship, religion, race, color, national or ethnic origin, handicap, and veteran or marital status. Sexual harassment is illegal under U.S. and Italian law and will not be tolerated within the University.

The University will disseminate this policy and take other steps to educate the University community about sexual harassment. The University will establish procedures to ensure that investigations of allegations of sexual harassment are conducted in a manner that is prompt, fair, thorough, and as confidential as possible under the circumstances and that appropriate corrective and/or disciplinary action is taken as warranted under the circumstances when sexual harassment is determined to have occurred. Members of the University community who believe themselves to be aggrieved under this policy are strongly encouraged to report the allegations of sexual harassment as promptly as possible. Delay in making a complaint of sexual harassment may make it more difficult for the University to investigate the allegations.

A. Prohibited Conduct

It is a violation of University policy for any member of the University community to engage in sexual harassment or to retaliate against any member of the University community for raising an allegation of sexual harassment, for filing a complaint alleging sexual harassment, or for participating in any proceeding to determine if sexual harassment has occurred.

B. Definition of Sexual Harassment

For purposes of this policy, sexual harassment is defined as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other oral or written communications or physical conduct of a sexual nature when: (1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic standing and/or (2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as a basis for employment or academic decisions affecting such individual.

C. Consensual Relationships

Amorous dating or sexual relationships that might be appropriate in other circumstances have inherent dangers when they occur between a faculty member, supervisor, or other member of the University community and any person for whom he or she has a professional responsibility. Among these dangers, (1) a student or employee may feel coerced into an unwanted relationship because he or she fears that refusal to enter into the relationship will adversely affect his or her education or employment and/or (2) conflicts of interest may arise when a faculty member, supervisor, or other member of the University community is required to evaluate the work or make personnel or academic decisions with respect to an individual with whom he or she is having a romantic relationship.

Faculty members, supervisors, and other members of the University community who have professional responsibility for other individuals, should be aware that any romantic or sexual involvement with a student or employee for whom they have such a responsibility may raise questions as to the mutuality of the relationship and may lead to charges of sexual harassment. For the reasons stated above, such relationships are strongly discouraged.

D. Enforcement

The President is responsible for overseeing the implementation of the policy. The President shall disseminate the policy against sexual harassment to all students, faculty and staff.

Any individual who feels he or she is being subjected to sexual harassment should contact the Office of the President. The President shall appoint a panel of two members from faculty to be available to receive complaints of sexual harassment. All panel members have an obligation to maintain confidentiality to the fullest extent possible. The panel is responsible for reviewing all complaints and for making efforts to resolve those complaints informally; if possible. When informal resolution is not possible, the panel shall fully investigate the complaint and shall report to the President the results of the investigation.

Any member of the University community may report allegations of sexual harassment to any member of the panel. Any person with supervisory responsibility is responsible within his or her area of jurisdiction for the implementation of the policy and must report to the panel any complaint of sexual harassment made to him or her.

Following receipt of the report from the panel on the investigation of a sexual harassment complaint, the President shall promptly take such action as he or she deems necessary and proper to correct the effects of or to prevent further harm to an affected party or others similarly situated. The complainant and the accused should be apprised of action taken as a result of the complaint.

The President can, in extreme cases, take whatever action is appropriate to protect the University community. In the event that the panel concludes that a complainant made a complaint of sexual harassment with knowledge that the allegations were false, the panel shall state this conclusion in the report.

CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES AND ILLEGAL DRUGS

The use of illegal drugs is strictly forbidden on campus. Students violating this regulation are subject to suspension or immediate dismissal.

While studying and living in Italy, students are subject to the laws of this country. This applies also to the use or possession of controlled substances, i.e., illegal drugs. The use and possession of controlled substances is illegal and can result in severe penalties. A U.S. or other passport will not protect anyone from arrest or detention. If the authorities detain you, citizens of most foreign countries are entitled to the right to contact their consulate. You may or may not enjoy the same civil rights in Italy as you receive in your home country.

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

The University expects that its students:

1. Be honest.
2. Have respect for themselves.
3. Have respect for others, their well-being, and their property.
4. Have respect for the rules of the University and the laws of the larger community.

Behavior that violates standards as set forth in the Student Handbook, the University Catalog, appropriate organizational constitutions and by-laws, housing/rental contracts and other University rules and regulations including bulletins released through campus communications is subject to disciplinary action by the University.

This Code of Conduct is applicable to and governs student conduct on the University premises, facilities, and adjoining public surroundings. It also applies to conduct at any University-sponsored event or other organized activity, and to any housing or residence facilitated by the University, inclusive of surrounding common public areas such as sidewalks, entrances and stairwells. Furthermore, the University reserves the right to impose this Code of Conduct and related sanctions to any action, whether on or off campus, that indicates a substantial threat or danger to others in the University community is present.

The University reserves the right to amend, supplement and otherwise modify this Code at any time.

The Office of the President is responsible for the determination of the applicability of the Code, the determination as to whether a violation has occurred and the determination of the appropriate sanction based on findings of fact and other evidence presented by the Student Life Office.

Requests for an appeal should be submitted in writing to the President.

A student requesting a hearing from the Student Life Fairness Committee will be informed of the date, time and location of the hearing not less than two (2) business days in advance of the hearing. The student will be entitled to:

- Present evidence, including the testimony of witnesses.
- Comment or respond to the charges.

The Student Life Fairness Committee has the authority to let stand, amend, or reverse a sanction. Sanctions may only be reversed or modified where the

Interim Suspension

The Director of Student Life or designee may suspend a student from the University for an interim period pending disciplinary or criminal proceedings or medical evaluation regarding behavior relevant to such proceedings. The interim suspension will be effective immediately without prior notice whenever there is evidence that the continued presence of the student at the University poses a substantial and immediate threat to him or herself, to others, or to the stability and continuance of normal University functions. Interim suspension excludes students from University privileges and activities as well as from University premises including all adjoining areas and student accommodations.

A student suspended on an interim basis will be given a prompt opportunity to appear personally before the Director of Student Life or designee in order to discuss only the following issues:

- (a) the reliability of the information concerning the student's conduct, including the matter of identity; and/or
- (b) whether the conduct and surrounding circumstances reasonably indicate that the continued presence of the student on University premises poses a substantial and immediate threat to him or herself, to others, or to the stability and continuance of normal University functions.

PROBLEM RESOLUTION

It is not uncommon that students encounter problems during their university study. They may be academic or non academic in nature. The American University of Rome has a formal grievance procedure that is outlined in the University catalogue as well as other specific policies, such as the sexual harassment policy, that deal with specific kinds of issues and have specific protocols with respect to resolving problems as they arise. However, students sometimes encounter issues that do not neatly fall into specific existing procedures and established protocols. In these cases students are encouraged to seek problem resolution as soon as possible. Problems, complaints and /or grievances may involve other students, staff, faculty or university polices or procedures.

It is specifically recommended that in attempting to resolve a problem or dispute that the students be polite, be specific and follow the below guidelines.

With respect to ACADEMIC issues, students should first contact the parties or offices directly involved in a frank, respectful way. (Ex: professor, librarian etc). The focus should be as specific as possible. Issues that are vague are by nature harder to resolve. If this does not resolve or clarify the situation the student should then seek an appointment with the applicable department chair. In the event this does not resolve any dispute or provide a satisfactory understanding of the situation, the student should write the Office of the Provost requesting an appointment. The communication should describe clearly the nature of the problem, the names of any persons or offices involved and importantly a description of any previous efforts made to resolve the problem. The Office of the Provost does not serve as the initial point of reference with respect to the resolution of student academic issues.

With respect to NON ACADEMIC issues, students should first contact the parties or offices directly involved in a frank, respectful way. (Ex: fellow student, staff member etc). The focus should be as specific as possible. Issues that are vague are by nature harder to resolve. If this does not resolve or satisfactorily clarify the situation the student should then seek an appointment with a staff member of the Office of Student Life. In the event this does not resolve any dispute or provide a satisfactory understanding of the situation, the student should write the Director of the Office of Student Life requesting an appointment. The communication should describe clearly the nature of the problem, the names of any persons or offices involved and importantly a description of any previous efforts made to resolve the problem. The Director of the Office of Student Life does not serve as the initial point of reference with respect to the resolution of student non academic issues.

Students are also reminded the student government of AUR (AURSG) is an active campus governance organization. The AURSG routinely holds meetings and open forums and this student organization has often assisted its constituents with problem resolution. Also, the AUR Student Life staff maintains has a virtual suggestion box on www.aur.edu.

Student Permit and Safety Information

EMBASSIES

The Embassy of the United States of America is located on Via Veneto 119. The telephone number is 06 46 741. To renew or issue a U.S. passport, you must consult the American Embassy of Rome's Internet site to determine the current procedures. The website (www.usembassy.it) is an excellent resource and information site for American citizens living in Italy.

You should be aware that the U.S. Embassy makes periodic announcements regarding the safety of American citizens abroad. The Bureau of Consular Affairs posts periodic travel warnings on their website as well. The University will post any specific warnings or advises regarding Italy. You should check the U.S. State Department website for information on any travel warnings or advisories.

For non-U.S. citizens, almost every nation maintains diplomatic and consular offices in Rome. In order to find your embassy in Rome, you can consult the Foreign Ministry website www.esteri.it.

STUDENT VISA AND STAY PERMIT PROCEDURES

Student Visa

All non-European Union students are required by law to obtain a student visa from the Italian consulate in their home country before departing for Italy. Without a valid student visa students cannot obtain their Permit to Stay.

Permit to stay

Upon arrival in Rome, all foreign students, including European Union citizens, must obtain a permit to reside in Italy (Permesso di Soggiorno per Studio). The permit is issued by the local police authorities (Questura). The University will provide relevant information and assistance to you upon arrival to secure your first permit to stay. However, it is your responsibility to comply with current stay requirements and secure the applicable documents.

Required Documents

All foreign students (that do not have an Italian passport) must meet in person with the Police to hand in the documents that are needed for the permit to stay. To facilitate the process of obtaining the Permit to stay, you must provide the following:

- 1 copy of each page of the passport (even blank pages)
- 1 copy of health insurance (see chapter below)
- 1 copy of AUR enrollment letter stamped by the Italian Consulate

The Permit to stay process is regulatory in nature and the applicable rules change frequently. Students are encouraged to consult the arrival materials distributed each academic semester for the most up to date procedure/requirements.

Students residing in housing contracted through the University will need to present the listed documents and follow the instructions given by the Student Life Office during the arrivals week.

Students residing in housing not contracted through the University will have to apply for their permit at the postal station and are also required to present a copy of their rental agreement. Each student needs to go to the post office in person to present his/her documents. The post office will provide each student with a receipt of their visit. At a later date the local police will contact each student in order to be finger printed. The actual permit is issued at a later date and needs to be picked up in person. We advise students to periodically check the list of the issued permits posted at the police station.

Renewal of Stay Permit

The stay permit for study is normally granted for the period of an academic year. Therefore, it expires and needs to be renewed within 60 days of the expiration. Students who need to renew their stay permit need to present

- 1 copy of each page of the passport (even blank pages)
- 1 copy of health insurance
- 1 copy of a credit card, bank statement or a letter of financial support
- 1 copy of AUR enrollment letter stamped by the University

It is the responsibility of the student to renew their stay permit. Student Life will assist with any related questions.

Health Insurance

Private U.S. medical insurance will only be accepted if the Italian Consulate issuing the visa attaches a cover letter in Italian stating the conditions of the policy and indicating that there are no restrictions. Italian health insurance (e.g. Generali or Assitalia) that complies with the applicable standards can be purchased on campus after your arrival. This insurance is a pre-requisite to receiving a student visa and entitles you to emergency health care in public hospitals. The cost is approximately €50 per semester and €100 per year.

Students may wish to obtain additional private health insurance to cover non-emergency health care, dental care, mental health care, health care outside the EU, treatment at private hospitals and clinics, medical evacuation and repatriation of remains. Students should be advised that typically these policies operate by reimbursement of eligible medical expenses incurred.

Traveling

If you wish to travel outside of the E.U. (European Union) area during the semester, you should obtain a multiple entry visa from the Italian Consulate before your arrival in Italy. Students with a single entry visa may experience problems when returning to Italy from non-EU countries. If you plan on traveling outside of Italy you are advised to consult the appropriate consulate (for travel to Spain, the Spanish consulate etc.) for detailed information on visa requirements or other necessary travel documents.

STUDENT SAFETY

Italy has a low rate of violent crime, little of which is directed toward foreigners or tourists. However, some travelers have been victims of crime. We suggest you carefully read through the safety advice on page 30 of this Handbook.

Petty crimes such as pick pocketing, theft from parked cars, and purse snatching are a serious problem, especially in large cities. Most reported thefts occur at crowded tourist sites, on public buses or trains, or at the major railway stations, Rome's Termini, Milan's Centrale, Florence's Santa Maria Novella, and Naples' Centrale and Piazza Garibaldi. For safety in your apartment, please check the housing section of this Handbook.

Lost Items

If you are a victim of a crime or a theft, the first thing to do is to file a police report. To report stolen items or crimes, you can go to the main police station of Rome (questura), located at Via San Vitale 32, or any nearby Carabinieri or Polizia station. You can also file a report online by using Denuncia vi@ web at www.carabinieri.it or www.poliziadistato.it. The Italian law enforcement is divided into two general categories: Polizia and Carabinieri. Polizia are the state police force and Carabinieri are Italy's national military police. Both Polizia and Carabinieri can be approached for general crime, such as theft or assault. There are also in-country organizations, which provide counseling, medical, and legal assistance to certain crime victims.

In your police report (denuncia) you are asked for a listing of the stolen items. This report can be used for insurance claims and to obtain passport and travelers check replacements. Filing a police report is your personal responsibility. You should take your passport and any other identification you possess with you when you file the report.

If you lose your credit card, report it immediately to the following numbers.

- AMEX 800 874 333
- Diner's Club 800 864 064
- Mastercard 800 870 866
- Visa 800 819 014

Lost Passports

U.S. citizens can apply for a new passport at the American Embassy. The passport office is located at Via Boncompagni 2 and is open Monday through Friday, 8:30am–12:30pm. In emergency situations, outside of normal service hours and on weekends and holidays please call 06 46741 and ask for the Embassy Duty Officer. Note that passports cannot be issued after hours or on weekends or holidays. Only emergency passports are ready for pickup the same day.

Requirements

- Proof of Identity and Citizenship Photocopies of the lost or stolen passport are helpful if available, or some other form of photo ID such as a Driver's License, or Military ID card.
- Police Report In Rome, a police report can be filed at any police or carabinieri station.
- 2 identical passport photographs taken within the last six months. They must show a full front view of your face and be taken on a light background. Color or black and white photographs are acceptable.
- One valid form of photo identification (driver's license) if possible

Necessary forms for lost or stolen passports may be obtained from the Passport

Office at the time of application, or you may download and print them from www.usembassy.it/acs/passports-lost.asp.

Fees

All applicable fees must be paid at the time of application. For adults the fee is $100. The Embassy accepts dollars, euro, traveler's cheques and major credit cards for payment but cannot accept personal checks or other foreign currency.

Student Safety Advice

In Italy, the police can require you to identify yourself. Therefore, it is essential that you carry a photocopy of your passport with you at all times. In extreme cases, the police can arrest and hold an unidentified person until that person is positively identified.

Please read through the following advice on personal safety and keep it in mind at all times.

Personal safety

- Don't leave your personal belongings unattended or with strangers
- Be especially aware of your belongings in crowded places like public transportation and on night trains
- If you choose to drink, do so moderately
- Don't leave your drinks at bars unattended
- Use the "buddy system" – always have a sober friend with you
- Don't leave your apartment doors or windows unlocked
- Avoid going out on your own during night time, especially walking in parks or small sideways
- Do not invite strangers to your apartment or enter the apartment of a stranger
- Do not accept drinks or rides from strangers
- Be wary of anyone excessively generous and/or friendly; never ignore your natural instinct to avoid someone who makes you feel uneasy
- Always carry a cell phone and/or a phone card with you
- Use the "buddy system" for going to isolated and out-of-the-way places such as bathrooms which are often found in the basements of bars, restaurants. etc.

Travel safety

- While traveling, keep your money and documents in two different places
- Avoid traveling by yourself, especially in empty train wagons
- Always leave your travel plans with someone you trust
- Check periodically the US Embassy website (www.usembassy.it) for travel warnings and alerts

In case of any emergency (fire, ambulance, crime) you must call 113, the national emergency number. Public telephones without money and cell phones without credit can be used to call the emergency number. The word for police in Italian is polizia (pronounce po-lee'tzee-a).

Italian Culture

No doubt shortly after arrival in Rome you will have noticed many differences from the familiar environment you have just left. If you are a study abroad student it is precisely these differences that likely have drawn you to this experience. Expect and embrace both change and difference. Keep an open mind. Understand that Italian is the language of Italy and that even if you have studied Italian, you will have some difficulty communicating.

Every culture has its own nuances and subtleties. Some are more evident than others. Avoid generalizations about Italian culture – they are likely inaccurate. Also know that generalizations about Italians and Italy are especially hard to accurately compose; it is a bit easier to make generalizations about the various cities and regions – each has a history and culture much deeper than the relatively “young” Republic of Italy. While some examples of fairly widely held generalizations such as devotion to and importance of family, importance of image and grooming or the concept of moderation with respect to food and drink are substantially correct, others are simply inappropriate and inaccurate. For example, since many retail stores are closed in the mid afternoon – don’t conclude that Italians take a long “siesta” and slowly flow along in life’s current. While it may be true that Italians, like all of us, enjoy their leisure time, most Italians work six days a week and Italy is one of the world’s most innovative and largest industrial countries. With respect to dating, the protocol you find in Italy may be very different than that to which you are accustomed. Casual acquaintances are rarely invited into the home; such invitations to acquaintances of the opposite sex may have clear implications here that are not so obvious to you. Failure to fully understand this could have disastrous consequences.

It is also important to understand that many of the things associated with your appearance and actions will identify your cultural origin. For example, did you know Americans are often readily identified by the type of backpack that they carry, the type of shoes that they wear (which typically do not change seasonally), or the overcoat they don’t wear during the fall and winter months?

AUR’s best advice for student visitors to this country is to observe the culture, study the language, make an effort to fit in and appreciate it. Never engage in the type of behavior that would not be found acceptable in your home nation. Simple courtesy and respect are tools that will never fail you.

An Insider's Perspective

But don't take Italy at face value. Or, rather, take Italy at face value if you want to, but don't complain later.

First of all, let's get one thing straight. Your Italy and our Italia are not the same thing. Italy is a soft drug peddled in predictable packages, such as hills in the sunset, olive groves, lemon trees, white wine, and raven-haired girls. Italia, on the other hand, is a maze. It's alluring, but complicated. In Italia, you can go round and round in circles for years. Which of course is great fun...

...It's the kind of place that can have you fuming and then purring in the space of a hundred meters, or the course of ten minutes. Italy is the only workshop in the world that can turn out both Botticellis and Berlusconi. People who live in Italy say they want to get out, but those who do escape all want to come back.

As you will understand, this is not the sort of country that is easy to explain. Particularly when you pack a few fantasies in your baggage, and Customs lets them through.

ITALIAN VIEWS ON DRINKING

Italians DO love their wine – Italians DON'T drink themselves silly

In Italian, the expression hangover doesn't exist, which says a lot about us, really...We produce the best wine in the world but...the drinking culture is so very different in Italy: wine is not seen as something to forbid, so our teenagers are not eager to transgress the law on age limits because we don't have one. We don't find that getting drunk helps the fun, and, while in Trafalgar Square on Saturday night you can see few people walking straight, going to an Italian party will teach plenty of people there is a lot of fun to be had when your head is clear...and plenty more sociable moments to enjoy when you can actually remember what you did and said the night before...

Which is why...

Italians DO love partying – Italians DON'T need help doing it

What is less attractive than alcoholic breath straight in your face when you are at a party or in a bar? We Italians believe that being drunk is the opposite of being sexy. Of course we like our champagne and wines, but in moderation, and when we want to meet somebody, starting to talk to them is not hard for us, even if we didn't touch a drop of alcohol. Most of the time, we have the 'courage' to talk to new people without having to find strength in a glass of something alcoholic.

*- Annalisa Coppolaro-Newell, *How to Live Like an Italian: A User's Guide to La Dolce Vita

"Twenty-one??!! That's when we stop drinking!!"

- Stefano, a young Roman upon hearing the legal drinking age in the United States

On the terrace in the summer, at the fireside in winter, and in pizza restaurants, clubs, trattorias, and nightspots all year round, the evening in Italy is official consolation time, a moment off the leash, and the daily slot for R&R. The night is a legal drug, and free of the alcohol-driven inebriation it induces in other countries. We're not out to get wasted. We want to carry on piecing together our unpredictable mental architectures...Lesson number one: people come here to drink, not to get drunk. Italians like being merry, but barfing on the sidewalk is not considered the high point of a Saturday night.

CULTURE SHOCK

Adjusting to a new culture is not always easy. Living away from family and friends, language barriers and different habits of the new culture may make life seem stressful and difficult. Going through a period of culture shock – feeling lost, nervous and sad – is normal and can be quite easily tackled by taking steps in adjusting to the new culture. Here are some strategies to help combat the stress produced by culture shock.

- Be patient. Living abroad, changing cultures and adapting to new situations takes time. Do not rush things and allow yourself to feel sad about the things that you have left behind: your family, your friends, etc. Recognize the sorrow of leaving your home country, but learn to also accept the new culture you are in. Focus your power on getting through the transition.
- Maintain contact with the new culture and try to learn the language. Volunteer in community activities that allow you to practice the language that you are learning. This will help you fill your time, feel useful and stress less about the language at the same time.
- Maintain confidence in yourself. Follow your ambitions and continue your plans for the future. Learn to be constructive and find ways to live with the things that do not satisfy you 100%. If you encounter an unfavorable environment, learn from it, but at the same time be easy on yourself. Everything – including yourself – cannot, will not and does not have to be perfect.
- Maintain contact with your own ethnic group. Pay attention to relationships with your family and at work. They will serve as support for you in difficult times. This will give you a feeling of belonging and will reduce your feelings of loneliness and alienation. Do not forget the good things you already have!
- Develop a hobby. Relaxation and meditation are proven to be very positive for people who are passing through periods of stress. Learn to include a regular form of physical activity in your routine to help combat the sadness and loneliness in a constructive manner. Exercise, swim or take an aerobics class.
- Establish simple goals and evaluate your progress as time passes.

Health Services

PHARMACIES

In Rome and throughout Italy, pharmacies are marked with a red or green neon cross sign. They are open generally from 8:30am to 1:00pm and then from 4:00pm from 7:30pm. There is a rotation system for nights and holidays and each pharmacy lists the closest open pharmacy. In Italian pharmacies you can find over-the-counter medicine for minor illnesses like colds and pains. The inventory is generally limited to pharmaceutical and personal hygiene products.

The pharmacy closest to the University is on Via Carini 44, near the corner bar (in front of the first 44 bus stop on Via Carini). The International Pharmacy, located in Piazza Barberini, has English-speaking pharmacists at 06 4825 456. There are 24-hour pharmacies located for example at the main train station of Termini, in Piazza Risorgimento 44 and Via Nazionale 228.

EMERGENCIES AND PUBLIC HOSPITALS

If you require emergency medical attention, all public hospitals have a first aid or an emergency room (pronto soccorso). If there is an emergency and you need immediate help, you should dial 118 for ambulance assistance. In an emergency, an ambulance will take the patient to the closest emergency room and, if hospitalization is necessary, the patient will be placed in the hospital best suited to treat the particular illness or injury. Students who are not Italian citizens but have an Italian insurance policy are covered for emergency treatment in state-run hospitals. There are several public hospitals with first aid/emergency facilities in the Trastevere and Monteverde area.

COUNSELING SERVICES

With respect to mental health emergencies such as suicide or severe depression, the public (and private) health system in Italy is very different than in the USA. Any student at risk for need of potential emergency intervention should consult a licensed professional immediately upon arrival in Italy.

Dr. Maria Cabot is a certified counselor who provides psychological counseling services including confidential individual or group sessions for students experiencing personal, academic or adjustment problems. She gives routine, non medical counseling to AUR students by appointment and maintains set office hours in her studio on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 6:00pm to 8:00pm. Housing Information, Policies and Procedures

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY

The apartments used by The American University of Rome housing program are different from college dormitory and apartment living in the United States. As a result, your behavior and demeanor must reflect this difference. As members of a community, you will have responsibilities to the city where you live and to your neighbors. You should strive to enhance the quality of life and safety of the neighborhood you share.

As first impressions are lasting, your arrival is critical in establishing good relations with your new Italian neighbors. Students are strongly advised to adjust to the local time zone as quickly as possible and to be acutely aware of the fact that those living in the neighboring apartments rightfully expect to be able to sleep as well as to live within a peaceful environment.

To help maintain good relations with your neighbors, keep in mind that you are part of a community and your actions affect your neighbors. Although your residency is temporary, recognize that most of your neighbors are living in their primary residence which they own. Please be sensitive to the lifestyle of your neighbors. Most residents enjoy the arrival of American students and you should do your part to foster that relationship. Most residents work full time and many may have families with young children, so keep excessive noise to a minimum at all times. You should remember that although the housing facilities are not directly provided by the University, your behavior reflects on the University and can affect future students' living arrangements.

HOUSING GUIDELINES

Casa Romana - Roman Apartment/Condominium

The Roman apartments housing programs are managed by two agencies - International Initiatives Company (ICI) and Your Place in Rome (YPR). Contact your agency within the first week of occupancy if any item in the apartment is broken or damaged. All contact information for your particular housing unit is posted in your unit along with other pertinent information (quickest route to AUR, your address and phone number, etc.)

For routine maintenance or service

- use the Maintenance Request icon on your apartment PC desktop to report your housing concern, OR
- call your Housing Agency provider during their normal office hours. The person answering the cell phone numbers speaks English; should you call the landline you may have to hang on until they find an English speaker to take your call.

In the case of a housing related true emergency you can call your Housing Agency emergency number at anytime.

For routine maintenance, please contact your housing agency directly.

You are always welcome to speak to Physical Plant or Student Life. If you have something that you feel has not been resolved, please do bring it to our attention.

Description

Students electing university-facilitated housing are placed in furnished apartments in areas surrounding the university campus. The apartments are located in traditional, well established neighborhoods. This housing is well suited for students looking for a "full immersion" cultural experience. While apartments are standardized in terms of basic amenities, they can vary greatly in terms of both proximity to the university and aesthetics. Students must understand that university housing is Italian by nature in every way, including but not limited to its structure, surroundings, utilities and utility providers, furnishings, building maintenance and repairs, neighbors and common rules of good neighbor etiquette.

There is generally only one (or a small number of) student apartment unit(s) per building and neighboring residents are typically middle-class Italian families who own their apartments. Most apartments have 2-3 bedrooms, lounge, kitchen and bathroom. Bedrooms are typically double-occupancy. Each apartment is equipped with basic furnishings and supplies, including one single bed per student, bed linens and towels, a closet/clothing storage space, typical basic Italian cookware and kitchenware, a table and chairs and furnished sitting area. Desks, when available, are to be shared by all occupants. Each student is expected to provide his/her own paper and cleaning products as well as replace light bulbs. Most apartment units are provided with a washing machine.

It is anticipated most apartments will be equipped with a personal computer (PC) with Windows XP Professional and have unlimited, no additional cost high speed access to the Internet as well as wireless access for those with wireless-ready laptops. In most cases, a landline phone will be provided which will provide unlimited calls to landlines within Italy. Calls to cellular phones and calls outside of Italy incur additional cost and can be effected with the use of a calling card. Unlimited incoming calls may be received without incurring any additional cost. Computer and phone are shared among unit residents. (Please note: the apartment computer is not meant to serve as the primary academic support resource for the occupants; the university maintains a library and computer labs for these purposes.) In the event a particular unit is not equipped with internet/phone line, a cellular phone will be provided and a partial refund made.

All apartments are same-sex, non-smoking environments.

Apartments are located in areas of Rome convenient to the university campus: Trastevere, Monteverde, Colli Portuense and Giancolense, all desirable residential neighborhoods. Compared to other parts of Rome, they have less noise and traffic, more green areas, better access to public transport and are conveniently located to the historic center of Rome.

All apartments are either within walking distance or conveniently located to public transit routes relative to the university. Travel times to the university vary but generally range between 15 and 35 minutes. Variances in transit times largely depend on bus frequency and local traffic. Many apartments are directly accessible by one direct bus line, while others require a change. Some apartments are located within walking distance of the university. Detailed travel instructions to/from the university and an initial supply of public transportation tickets will be provided upon arrival.

Apartments are not owned by the university. The real estate agency/manager assists students with maintenance and other issues that may arise during the occupancy. See the previous page for contact information.

Housing Rules

Behavior

- The AUR institutional goal of continuing to foster a community based on open communication and mutual respect applies also to your housing unit, with respect to yourself, your roommates, neighbors and all housing personnel.
- Italian quiet hours laws must be respected.
- Common rules of Italian etiquette must be observed.
- It is prohibited to bring animals, stereos, speakers, televisions, musical instruments, or heaters into the apartment. It is also prohibited to place nails in the walls or to remove furnishings. Tape and "blu-tack" also cause damage and cannot be used on the walls. Candles, incense or any other materials that produce an open flame are not allowed.
- Overnight guests are not permitted.
- All apartments are non-smoking environments.

Common Rules of Italian Etiquette

Because of the architecture and design of Italian buildings (marble and ceramic surfaces, pipes that pass through the whole building, no wall to wall carpeting, no forced central air creating white noise), noise passes easily between walls and floors, most especially during late night. It is no coincidence that Italian laws set "quiet hours". The following list of common rules of Italian etiquette is based on behaviors Italian neighbors have learned to avoid in order to live happily and peacefully under a common roof and common walls. As Italian apartments are so completely different from what most students are familiar with, your AUR student housing unit can quickly provide you with your first experience of Italian culture shock; the following should help you make an easier transition. These expectations from your neighbors are in line with everyday Italian good manners, so do not be alarmed or offended. You will be living alongside normal Italian families with children, the elderly and the employed – people who have normal daily lives to live as well as jobs and schools to get to – again, people whose weekends do not begin until after Friday or even Saturday afternoon.

- The privacy of other residents must be respected at all times.
- By Italian law, making noise is not allowed between 12:30 or 1:00pm and 3:30 or 4:00pm, nor between 9:30 or 10:00pm and 8:00am (specific hours are set by the administrator of building). Excessive noise on the premises is unacceptable at all times.
- You are expected to behave respectfully and are requested to refrain from appearing in the public areas of the condominium barefoot or scantily dressed. The latter also applies to when service providers come to your unit to clean or provide maintenance or repairs.
- Hard sole or high heel shoes should be worn only when leaving your apartment, and removed upon re-entry, most importantly during quiet hours.
- Do not run washing machines during quiet hours (loads started before 8:30pm typically finish their final cycle before 10:00pm).
- Avoid cooking, washing dishes, or taking showers in the middle of the night (these activities cause noise which easily reverberate through the building).

- Do not congregate in the common areas of your building, and keep noise to a minimum while in the balconies, stairwells, hallways and elevators. Use the telephone or citofono to call your friends or neighbors; do not converse from or shout out your windows, balconies or doors.
- Never drag furniture across the room; instead, lift furniture off the floor when moving it, and avoid moving furniture altogether during quiet hours.
- Never toss anything from the windows, terraces or balconies, but instead dispose of properly. Make sure anything left on your windowsills or balconies cannot be blown away by strong winds.
- Take your garbage out daily. Never leave your garbage outside your apartment door, even "to remind yourself" to take it out. Do not allow garbage to accumulate on your terrace.
- Elevators should be closed properly so that others will be able to call it to their own floors. Never hold the elevator if you are not ready to use it. Respect weight limits posted within elevators; brake damage or worse may occur if ignored. The last person entering an elevator should ask the others "quale piano?" (which floor?), and press the button for the closest floor. Never enter an elevator with a lit cigarette.
- Should you spill or drop something in a common area of your building (including the elevator), clean it up immediately. Never allow your garbage to leak onto the landings, stairs or elevator – should this occur, clean it before your neighbors discover it.
- Never allow anyone you are not expecting or don't personally recognize as a neighbor into your building – apartment safety is a community effort.
- Never buzz or allow your guests to buzz apartments other than your own on the citofono.
- Doors, windows and serrande should always be closed quietly; do not allow them to slam. Secure them against the strong Roman winds.
- The most minimal good manners between Italian neighbors is to always greet each other formerly with a buongiorno (before lunch) or buona sera (anytime after lunch). Salve works well at any time of day, and with anyone; it is easy to remember and can be used in response to all the other salutations. Ciao is a very familiar greeting (familiar as in "I know you very, very well") and should be used only for your peers and others you know very well, as using it can also be a sign of disrespect. To say goodbye without offending, use arrivederci. Use the Lei form with your neighbors also. Should an aged person use the tu with you – his or her privilege as your elder – still address him or her with the Lei form. Any Italian brought up with good manners will not insist you use informal modes of address with them, most especially if you have just met or are mere acquaintances. (These good manners apply also with maintenance personnel servicing your unit, and in public places.)

Responsibilities

- The rental fee includes the expenses for electricity, water, gas, condominium fees and routine maintenance services from 9:00am to 5:30pm, Monday through Friday.

- The agencies providing Casa Romana apartments are located locally and are open Monday to Friday from 9:00am to 5:30pm. Routine maintenance requests should be reported electronically via the "Maintenance Request" icon located on the PC desktop in each unit. Students can call these offices directly or, alternatively, for those who cannot speak Italian, call the English-speaking cellular phone. If students require emergency housing assistance after regular office hours, they should call their agency's emergency cell phone number; this number is posted at the entrance of every Casa Romana apartment.
- Neither the agents nor the University are responsible for items left in the apartment. Never leave large amounts of cash, traveler's checks, jewelry or other valuables in the apartments. It is also prudent to never leave anything of value out in the open.
- Keys are the exclusive responsibility of the student. If you lose your keys, report the loss immediately to the agency so that they can provide a new set, or, if necessary, arrange for a locksmith to change the locks. Keys are never to be given to anyone. Keys must be left behind at the end of the semester; apartments with missing keys may have their locks changed at a charge to the departing residents. Instructions will be posted at the end of the semester as to how to properly return your keys.
- It is expected that you take adequate care of furnishings; damage to any item will be charged. Damages must be reported to the agent as soon as they occur or are discovered. Damages are expected to be settled before departure. If they are not, AUR reserves the right to impose an administrative processing fee in addition to the damage amount already due.
- Notify the superintendent within the first week of occupancy regarding any broken or damaged items in the apartment.
- Unit problems, including but not limited to repairs needed, must be expeditiously reported, directly to the housing agent.
- Newcomers will inevitably find that things work differently in Italy than what they are used to back home—never force anything (ie, doors, windows, appliances, plugs, etc) as you could easily break something you are unfamiliar with. Pay attention to the things that you use, and never hesitate to ask for help as even things as simple as opening a door or flushing a toilet can be completely new to you.
- Security deposits, when applicable, will be refunded subsequent to vacating the apartment and final inspection. The AUR Housing Office supplies security deposit refund disbursement instructions to the AUR Finance Office, after any appropriate deductions, approximately 8-10 weeks after the semester end.
- If you are evicted from the apartment for any reason, there shall be no refund of unexpended rent because the apartments are contracted on a semester basis.
- All assigned occupants are responsible for what occurs in their units, including for their guests.

Visitors

The right of a student to live in reasonable privacy takes precedence over the right of his/her roommate to entertain guests in a room/apartment. In the practical application of determining when guests should be invited to the unit, common sense and mutual respect should prevail.

All visitors are expected to abide by AUR rules and regulations. In addition, students are responsible for any activities taking place in their housing that are in violation of Housing rules and regulations or of University policy. AUR reserves the right to deny violators visitation privileges on a permanent basis.

- Students are obligated to limit the number of visitors to a reasonable number, in compliance with condominium rules and common courtesy.
- Students are allowed to have visitors from 8:00 a.m. through to their condominium association's evening quiet hours, seven days per week.
- Overnight guests are prohibited.

Phones

It is anticipated most apartments will be equipped with a landline phone that will provide unlimited calls to landlines in Italy. Calls to cellular phones and calls outside of Italy incur additional cost and can be effected with the use of a calling card. Unlimited incoming calls may be received without incurring any additional cost.

- Each apartment not equipped with a landline phone will have a prepaid cellular phone, which has an initial value of €25, to be shared amongst all occupants. The credit on the phones can be recharged at many locations, including most tabacchi shops, bars and newsstands.
- The two principal cellular phone providers (TIM and Vodafone) have stores near the University. Charges imposed are decided by the cellular phone service provider (TIM or Vodafone), not by the housing agent or The American University of Rome.
- Cellular phones must not be removed from the apartment. If the phone is lost, the occupants of the apartment will be responsible for the costs of replacing of the phone, including the cost of the phone card.

Windows and Doors

- Due to the force of Rome's strong winds, windows may slam shut and break. Therefore windows and doors must be properly closed/locked at all times.
- Elevator doors must be closed when exiting the elevator or it will not function. Elevators typically have two sets of doors. Each set must be manually and securely closed; as with all doors, do not allow them to slam but instead close the elevator doors carefully.
- Apartment doors should be locked and secured at all times. You are expected to close shutters and windows, ensure that all gas appliances are turned off and securely lock doors when leaving your apartment or going to bed.
- Doors, windows and shutters should be closed without allowing them to slam.
- Never force keys to turn as you may break them, or worse, break an expensive locking mechanism. Report any problems with your keys or locks right away.

Cleanliness and Hygiene

- Apartments and rooms must be kept tidy to allow the cleaning staff to work in the apartment and kitchen sinks should be accessible. Cleaning personnel are not responsible for picking up loose articles, removing trash, cleaning laundry or washing dirty dishes. At times you may find that the cleaning lady has skipped a particular task; inquiring at the agency or housing office may help you understand why and help you avoid this in the future. The agencies provide regular, scheduled cleaning; access to AUR accommodations must be provided so that the cleaning staff may carry out their work.
- Casa Romana +5 units receive daily cleaning Monday through Saturday, except on holidays.
- Casa Romana units receive twice weekly cleaning.
- Bed linens are provided and you are expected to change the sheets weekly.
- Garbage should be removed daily and placed in the green bins located in the street outside the apartments. Take a tip from the locals and recycle your plastic grocery bags instead of buying garbage bags—they fit small Italian trash bins perfectly and their handles tie conveniently for easy daily removal.
- You are responsible for cleaning the kitchen area. If this is not done, the agent may clean the area at a charge to the occupants.
- Take another hint from the locals and change out of your street shoes the moment you come home – between brake dust from the cars, sand and dust blown in from the African continent, and the dogs without their own yards, you'll find this a good habit to adopt. Very few Italian homes have air conditioning or screens, so the filters normally found in the US which eliminate dust and pollen are not found here, and many Italian housewives dust daily. However, Italian surfaces are easy to clean so long as they are clutter-free.
- The agencies provide a healthy, sanitary living environment for students. Students should be aware that while traveling throughout Europe, the Mediterranean and the world, they may expose themselves and their belongings to unsanitary conditions and pests. It is the student's responsibility to ensure pests and other unwanted elements are not brought back to the unit. Students are advised to exercise care whether they are in a hostel or a five-star hotel, irregardless. (Please see page 61 for more information.)

Electric Appliances

- You should carefully read the instructions for the use of the washing machine and hot water heater, as repairs for such items are costly. You are responsible for all repair costs resulting from their negligence or misuse. Never force open the door to the washing machine.
- You should be extremely careful with the use of the gas stove in the apartment. Make sure to light the flame immediately and to turn it off carefully after use.
- To prevent damage to the electrical system as well as to your own appliances, check with your housing agent before using any non-European appliance, converter or adaptor.
- Also to prevent damage to the electrical system as well as to your own appliances, never overload the electrical outlets with multi-outlet

- power strips.
- Never yank wires from an outlet as you may take the outlet casing with it. While using one hand to support the outlet, gently pull the plug out with your other hand.

Helpful Hints for Italian Apartment Living

Not All Apartments Are the Same

In Rome, not all apartments are created equal. Although the apartments vary in location, style and size, all of them provide the essentials. Please try to understand this fact and accept it as part of your experience in Rome. Do not immediately compare your apartment with those of other students. Other than the previously listed FIVE (5) additional services, there is no specific difference between the Casa Romana +5 and normal Casa Romana Option housing.

Emergencies and Regular Maintenance

University assisted housing has managers who are available during normal office hours which you will find posted where you live. Also listed are emergency contact numbers for times outside office hours. Please call the emergency numbers only in the case of a true housing emergency. For routine housing matters call your housing manager during the posted office hours.

Conservation in Italy

Italians, like their fellow Europeans, are great conservationists and are very practical about conserving their resources, especially given the high cost of energy which is many times higher than typical U.S. utility rates. You will find these efforts affect water, electricity, heating fuels, transportation fuels and even space. While you may find it challenging, we hope it becomes one of the many positive lessons you will take home with you.

Heating and Air Conditioning

Heating in most apartments is controlled by the condominium and is turned on according to the needs of the majority of residents. Although it varies from building to building, this is generally sometime between 5, 6 or 7 am and 9 or 10 am, and again for a few hours before 10 or 11 pm. Heat cannot be on between 11 pm and 5 am. This means that the hours in between heating are what you could call "Roman room temperature", which is slightly warmer than the temperature outside. Italian law dictates that condominium administrated heating must be on twice daily from November 15 until March 15. Severe fines can be imposed by local officials against those found violating the Italian law governing these limits. Wearing warmer clothes (ex., wool, fleece, flannel) indoors during winter months is considered normal practice amongst Italians and experienced expats; it is strongly suggested that students adopt this practice for their own comfort.

Should there be a sharp drop in outdoor temperatures, expect to notice the difference even in your unit; it will naturally become harder for your furnace to heat your unit/building. Should you still suspect that your heat is not working, you should

- let the agency know as early in the day as possible – waiting until late afternoon or the weekend will hinder their ability to service your unit on a timely basis.

- check the different rooms in your unit – it could just be that one particular radiator isn't working. If you've got this particular problem, send a maintenance request specifying which radiator needs to be serviced.
- never play with your thermostat – you could actually be turning the system off!
- ask your agency to find out specifically what time your unit's condo association has decided to heat the building – students sleeping through their heating hours is not unheard of.
- never use stoves and ovens for their heat – these are NOT suitable heating solutions for you and your roommates.

Apartments are not provided with air conditioning; instead, keep cool the Italian way – during the day, Italians traditionally keep their shutters and serrande closed against the heat of the sun. In order to cool the apartment you might also consider buying a fan.

Electrical Power

All the apartments in Rome operate with a 3 kilowatt fuse box. This means that an overload of power will leave you in the dark. You should be careful when using American appliances with an adapter; that usually puts an extra load on the power supply. Also be careful of using many appliances simultaneously: the water heater and another appliance (i.e., hair dryer, curling iron, washing machine) will blow the fuse!! Should this happen, your power will be cut off – turn off any electrical appliance and light fixture you don't truly need at the moment and check your fuse box to flip your apartment switch back on. When replacing light bulbs, consider purchasing energy saving bulbs which consume less energy while providing more light and thus will be less likely to help overload your limited electrical supply.

Warm Water

Almost all Roman apartments are furnished with a water heating tank located either in the bathroom or the balcony. In the tank, there is generally enough warm water to last for one long shower. With roommates, however, that one shower must be divided into three or four short but effective showers. Please expect about ten to fifteen minutes of warm water at a time allowing at least a couple of hours to replenish the supply. Should the weather become particularly cold, so will the public water supply. Please bear in mind that this will in turn affect the temperature of the water coming through to your bathroom and kitchen. Should you suspect that your water heater is not working, you should

- let the agency know as early in the day as possible – waiting until late afternoon or the weekend will hinder their ability to service your unit on a timely basis.
- check the different faucets in your unit – it could just be that one particular area isn't working. If you've got this particular problem, send a maintenance request specifying which sink or shower needs to be serviced.
- never play with the controls on your water heater – you could actually be turning the system off!

Drains

Just like back home, hair, food and other matter will clog drains. Be careful of what you allow to go down any drain and be conscientious about wiping your sinks, tubs and showers of hair, food, etc. Your kitchen sink will not have a garbage disposal – garbage must go into garbage bags.

Showers

Some shower heads are attached above head level, others are actually hand-held, and some can be both. Showers may have glass or plastic sliding doors, others may have curtains, and still others may have neither. Even showers built into their ceramic bathroom with the drain located directly in the ceramic floor are not uncommon.

Toilets

Toilets may flush in a variety of ways – very rarely, there's an old-fashioned chain to pull, even more rarely the handle is found on the tank. You might see a stainless steel button located somewhere above the toilet in the wall; a firm push with the ball of your palm is what's needed here. Other flushers are large plastic white plates above the toilet; these modern devices help conserve water – press the smaller panel for a light flush, the larger for a bit more water, or both at once for the entire water supply in the tank. Just like in the US, if the water runs non-stop, "jiggle" whatever flushing device you have to stop it.

Italians are known for their stylishly engineered ceramic design; that having been said, the water's just in the wrong place. Use the brush and leave the bathroom as you'd like to find it yourself.

Feminine hygiene products or condoms should never be flushed, and neither should paper or synthetic "Handi/Wipe" type towels.

Ventilation

Use the fan or crack a window open to air steam out of the bathroom or kitchen. Failure to do so will result in mold, most especially in your bathroom.

To ensure their homes don't smell of stale air, Italians regularly open their windows to allow the cross ventilation of fresh air. This is good practice, but do make sure that you secure windows and doors to prevent slamming and breakage. In addition, it is very important that you never do this at a time when you are not in the rooms (see apartment safety, page 53).

DISHING THE DIRT

What they say is true: Rome is a dirty city. So let's talk dirt...

Italy began vehicle emissions testing not long ago, and with these only recently initiated efforts to cut down on pollution, Rome and other major cities actually ban traffic on a regular basis. Despite all efforts, buses, motorini and cars continue to spew their nasty exhaust. To make matters worse, every single vehicle in the stop-and-go traffic throws off black brake dust.

And if that weren't bad enough, because of Italy's proximity to the African continent, there is an extraordinary amount of dust which finds its way over here. A lot more than you'd expect. You'd think a nice cooling rain would bring sweet relief and wash it all away, but no, here it rains cats, dogs, and Saharan sand!

There are also differences in furnishings – back in the States, for example, many of us have air conditioning which filters impurities out of circulating air. Americans also have window screens which provide some physical barrier. But here in Italy, neither of these is commonly found in your typical household. Wall-to-wall carpeting hides a lot, but Italians often reel back in horror of the idea of keeping something in their home that hosts all that dirt and the mites that come with it.

OK, then, how do the Romans handle it? Italians are experts at dealing with the problem. Fanatics, even. They sweep, they mop, they dust. Every day, even twice a day. Their flooring is designed and chosen specifically for this – smooth hard flooring which is easy to clean. They keep their windows and/or shutters closed. They remove their shoes the moment they come home and put on their house slippers. Not a bad idea, because there's that other type of "dirt" you've been walking through...

Sirocco, also scirocco

Function: noun

Etymology: Italian sirocco, scirocco, from Arabic sharq

a hot oppressive dust-laden wind from the Libyan deserts that blows on the northern Mediterranean coast in Italy, Malta and Sicily

Washing Machines

You will immediately note a difference between American and European washing machines: the latter are "front loading", i.e., there is no top lid but instead a front door. Because water can spill out and potentially cause damage, these front doors have a special timed lock and will not open when cycles are actively running. DO NOT force your washing machine open.

European manufacturers supply their appliances to many nations and therefore your washing machine control panel may have symbols instead of Italian. Should you have trouble understanding the control panel or simply don't know how to operate your unit's washer, contact your agency for an appointment so that they can demonstrate to you and your roommates.

Loads can generally take up to 2 hours or even longer, so plan ahead, coordinate with your roommates and perhaps consider sharing the loads. Bear in mind the Italian quiet hours laws before starting a load late in the evening.

(NB: not all university facilitated housing comes with a washing machine.)

Refrigerators

Europeans are masters at space-saving, and their refrigerators are another example of this. Combining the lack of space with a love of good, fresh foods, Italians shop regularly (if not daily) at the outdoor markets, specialty shops and grocery stores found around almost every corner. Be careful of overloading your refrigerator – if the door cannot close or if the cold air is not allowed to circulate freely within the unit, the appliance will not be able to function properly and your food (as well as your roommates') will likely spoil. You and your roommates might consider shopping and cooking together to cut down on refrigerator overload – after all, real Italian-style living revolves around the kitchen table and shared meals!

Keys

Lost keys are your responsibility. The University does not have copies of keys; therefore in case of a lockout, contact your roommate. Agency management reserves the right to charge for a lock-out, most especially after office hours. For a replacement set, see the specific instructions listed under your assigned housing option, listed previously. If you think it appropriate to change the locks, ask the agency to order a locksmith.

Leaving the Apartment (Housing Checkout)

You are to leave the apartments by noon on the day following the last day of final exams. The university cannot arrange to extend your lease or make arrangements to store your luggage after the lease expires. However, the Student Life office is happy to suggest available luggage storage or shipping services. As a semester draws to an end, instructions will be provided concerning housing check-out procedures. Damage charges after semester end will be divided equally amongst all occupants, so if anyone is responsible for any particular damage, make it known to the Housing Office before departure. Any outstanding damage charges will be charged to the appropriate student's or students' financial account(s).

Overnight Guests

Overnight guests are strictly prohibited. Should a visiting friend or relative need a place to stay, please ask any of the Housing or Student Life Coordinators for a list of local lodgings.

Respect Your Neighbor

Please be considerate of those living with and around you. The walls in Italy allow sound to pass surprisingly easily — you can hear much of what your neighbor is doing or saying, and vice versa. Most of your neighbors are normal Italian citizens with families and full-time jobs, they need 7-8 hours of sleep every night, and their weekend starts as late as on Saturday afternoon. By law, silence is imperative between 9:30 or 10:00pm and 8:00am, and again after 1:00pm until 3:30 or 4:00pm; please respect this by keeping noise to minimum. Because most floors are made of marble or ceramic and hence do not buffer the sounds coming from your apartment, wear slippers or soft sole shoes rather than hard or high heels. Also, most elevator doors in Italy are not electronic and have to be closed manually. Please remember to close them carefully every time you use the elevator; when you forget to do so, it can impact other residents for whom elevator unavailability is more than a mere inconvenience: the handicapped, elderly, mothers with infants and toddlers, as well as just about anyone with their shopping. For your own safety as well as that of others, be sure to respect the weight limits posted within the elevators (1 kilo is 2.2 pounds). Please refer to Common Rules of Italian Etiquette for more helpful hints, found herein.

Legalities

Illegal drugs are ILLEGAL. As a foreign student, you should be aware that the laws are different and search warrants are not necessary for drugs in Italy. In Italy, the police can require you to identify yourself. Therefore, it is essential that you carry a photocopy of your passport with you at all times. In extreme cases, the police can arrest an unidentified person until that person is positively identified.

It is unlikely that students who themselves and whose roommates follow the AUR Code of Conduct and AUR Housing Rules and Guidelines will experience problems with their neighbors. However, should your neighbors call the police on your apartment to file a complaint, you should:

- Have your passport and visa available
- Be polite and courteous
- Understand that no search warrant is required under Italian law
- Understand that given current police resources, your situation is unlikely to be viewed sympathetically.

Apartment Safety

Many of the housing rules are set in an effort to ensure student safety. In addition to the housing rules, please bear the following in mind:

In your apartment, keep your shutters and serrande closed at night and whenever you're not home. Always speak to any person who has buzzed your apartment through the intercom system to make sure you know who it is before you buzz them into your building – never buzz in or hold the door open for someone you don't know. If they have an honest reason for being there, there should be someone there to allow them in. Crimes in Italy are generally petty crimes of opportunity – just don't leave that opportunity open!

Do not invite mere acquaintances into your apartment - Italians socialize in public places and no one expects you to invite them in. Italians would never dream of inviting a stranger or new acquaintance to socialize in their homes, most especially during quiet hours, and might never even invite their friends! By crossing this commonly accepted boundary, you might inadvertently send the wrong message. All students - but in particular females - should be aware of the social and potentially legal implications of inviting guests into their homes.

Only give details of your or your roommates' travel plans to your trusted AUR community and never to strangers or acquaintances.

Call 112 or 113 to report any strange behavior outside your unit.

Stranger a person who is unknown or with whom one is unacquainted*

Acquaintance a person with whom one has had some social contact but for whom one has no strong personal attachment* (A "friend of a friend" would be an acquaintance. You wouldn't necessarily know this person's last name or even name.)

Friend a person one has regarded with liking and a degree of respect and has known for a time in a pleasurable relationship neither notably intimate nor dependent wholly on business or professional ties* (Generally, someone you've known and who has earned your trust and respect over a period of time, whose full name you've known for quite a while, and whose other friends and family you have probably gotten to know. The charming local who speaks English and bought you a drink may become a friend over the next few months, but he was a stranger until only a few minutes/hours/days/weeks ago, and is only now qualifying as an acquaintance.)

*Source: Merriam-Webster's

Trust should be earned gradually over time, and never given away.

The Tiger Mosquito

The City of Rome has an ongoing campaign to combat the tiger mosquito, including the spraying of public parks, schools, buildings and streets, as well as a push to educate the public. Individual condominium complexes typically spray their surrounding property, and all are asked to be vigilant about eliminating standing water, especially on terraces and balconies. To keep from being bitten, avoid strongly scented soaps, shampoos, etc, and strangely enough, avoid eating bananas. It is good practice to never leave a light on in a room you're not currently using as bugs (mosquitoes included) will be attracted there. Loose clothing provides a barrier of air between your skin and clothing. A very small percentage of the population will find themselves particularly sensitive to the mosquito bite and may benefit from repellent products which can be purchased at the local pharmacy; repellents for rooms in your apartment can also be purchased at the pharmacy, as well as at your local hardware store (ferramenta) and grocery store.

Helpful Websites

The information about living in Rome contained in the Student Handbook can also be found within our website www.aur.edu. In addition, we have found the following sites very helpful:

www.slowtrav.com/italy/instructions/

Provides a wealth of information about living in and traveling through Italy, including detailed instructions for daily living, supported by photographs. Covers a broad spectrum, from food shopping to operating washing machines, from making espresso, to catching a taxi, from using any kind of phone to going to the beach. Photographs help prepare you for the unexpected. Definitely worth visiting and revisiting.

www.atac.roma.it

Provides door to door public transportation instructions within the city of Rome, with maps.

www.tuttocitta.it

Provides maps of the city of Rome, as well as door to door instructions for driving or walking.

Telephones

Most of the public phones around the city require the use of a prepaid phone card (scheda telefonica). You can purchase phone cards at most tabacchi shops, newsstands and bars in denominations of €5, €10, €15 etc. These cards are also useful for long distance phone calls (see below).

Remember that even local calls are timed and cost money; if you are using coins make sure to put enough money into the machine (the price for a local call starts from €0.10). If you are dialing a number that begins with 335, 338, 339, 330, 347, 349, 368, etc, you are calling a cell phone, remember that it is more expensive.

INTERNATIONAL PHONE CALLS

You should consider that Rome is 6 hours ahead of U.S. Eastern Standard Time and 9 hours ahead of U.S. Pacific Standard Time. International calls can be made from any telephone booth, either using an Italian card or your own calling/credit card. To place direct international calls you have to dial the following sequence

00 + country code + area code + local number

AT&T, MCI and SPRINT calling cards can be used from any private landline or public phone with a scheda. When calling from a public phone, you must have a local phone card even though there will be no debit to the balance. You can reach an

- AT&T operator at 800 172 444
- MCI operator at 800 905 825
- SPRINT operator at 800 172 405

You can buy pre-paid MCI and AT&T phone cards at tabacchi shops. International Calling Cards are available in many brands at different charges. Make sure to ask for Carta Telefonica Internazionale. Instructions for the use of these cards are written on the cards, compare wisely as rates vary.

In order to make a collect call to the U.S., you should call the AT&T and MCI numbers above and follow the same instructions for using a public phone.

TELEPHONE RATES

Telephone prices change frequently and the University is not responsible for any changes in fees not reported in this Handbook. Students are responsible for checking their telephone usage and costs regularly.

Mailing and Shipping

RECEIVING LETTERS AND PACKAGES

Receiving Letters

It is important that you have all of your mail addressed to the University address as follows:

Student's Name
c/o The American University of Rome
Via Pietro Roselli 4
00153 Rome, ITALY

Regular mail arrives daily at approximately 1:00 pm. It will be sorted and delivered to the student mailboxes which are located in the student lounge on the ground floor of Building A.

Receiving Packages

Packages should be addressed in the same manner as listed above. Most packages will be delivered directly to AUR. However, on some occasions you will be required to pick up the package or registered letter directly from the local package branch of the post office, from a delivery agent or even from the airport (see note below regarding medicines). If you receive a package on hold at the post office, you will receive a yellow card indicating where the item can be collected. You must bring your passport to claim parcels at all of Rome's post offices.

Once a package is received at The American University of Rome, it will be logged and set aside in a secure area in the Reception. A Package Received Notice will be placed in the mailbox located in the student lounge. Take the notice with you to the Reception as you pick the package up. Packages are only given to the addressee, who must sign the ledger.

Please take the following information into consideration before having packages sent. We also ask that you share this information with anyone who might send a package to you:

- Any goods sent from outside the European Union will be subject to a customs tax, as set by Italian and European law. The local delivery agent customs representatives may also charge a handling fee in addition to the customs tax.
- A tax can be charged for any item of value; in the past, most (but not all) packages with a declared value of under $50 arrive untaxed. More recently, however, we have seen taxes routinely charged on much lower values.
- To facilitate payment of customs taxes, those sending a package should inquire with their courier service about accepting the charges on the credit card used to pay for delivery.
- Items of high value entail an accordingly high customs tax; hence, it makes more sense to personally hand-carry any such item (i.e., laptop computer, camera equipment) when you first arrive than to have it shipped to you separately. Should you absolutely need to have such an item shipped, advise your family and friends to not assign an excessive value to the package: the value they assign to your package will be the amount used for calculating any taxes and fees. Should an item need to be insured, bear in mind that you will be taxed on the value declared & insured by the sender. The usual tax rate is around 20%.

- In our experience, packages containing used clothing or personal items with a low declared value usually have little or no problem getting through the delivery system. Packages with easy-to-understand and simple descriptions seem to arrive more easily than those with minute details (i.e., "used clothing, value $25" vs. "leather jacket, value $250"). Avoid using brand names; instead, use the simplest description possible.
- Any medicines, whether prescription, over-the-counter, or even vitamins, cosmetics and shampoos should not be sent. If they are detected, the customs agent will not allow them to be delivered. Should you require prescription medicine, bring a supply to last you for at least your entire stay. Should you urgently need prescription medications from home while in Rome, speak personally with a Student Life Coordinator for information on how these should be shipped.

For further information about shipping to Italy from the U.S., the United States Postal Service has a very useful website www.usps.com. Specifically, please visit the Customs section at www.usps.com/international/customs.htm for their information on customs in foreign countries.

Paying Customs Taxes and Fees

Hopefully, having followed the above guidelines, you will not find yourself in the position of being charged taxes and fees. If not, the procedure is usually as follows:

The delivery agent will present the package to AUR and request payment.

- Should the fee be less than €5, the school will pay the fee on your behalf so that delivery will not be delayed. You must reimburse the school for any fee paid on your behalf when picking up the package.
- Should the fee be more than €5, the school will take a photocopy of the delivery agent's claim form and ask the delivery agent to return within the next day or two. Instructions on how to proceed will be sent to you by email and placed in your mailbox.

Registered Letters

Registered letters are logged and placed in a secure place. A notice will be placed in the mailbox for the student, who must produce the notice in order to retrieve his/her registered letter.

SENDING LETTERS AND PACKAGES

Post Offices

The three main post offices in Rome are open Monday through Friday from 8:00am to 7:00pm, and on Saturday mornings from 8:30am to 1:15pm.

- Piazza San Silvestro 19 (near Piazza di Spagna)
- Via di Porta Angelica 23 (at San Pietro)

- Via Marmorata 4 (at Piramide)

Branch offices can be identified by a yellow sign bearing the letters PT. The closest post office to the University is on Via Maurizio Quadrio and it is open Mon-Fri 8:30am to 2:00pm and on Saturdays from 8:30 to 1:00pm.

You can purchase stamps at any local tabacchi (indicated by a black, rectangular sign with a large white T) or at the post office. The cost of the stamp varies according to weight, destination. Below you can find an indicative table with prices valid in March 2010. The University is not responsible for changes in prices reported in the Handbook.

WEIGHT	DESTINATION	PRIORITY MAIL €
0 to 20 grams	Italy	0.60
	Other European and Mediterranean countries	0.65
	Africa, America and Asia	0.85
	Oceania	1.00
20 to 50 grams	Italy	1.40

All mail has to be posted in the red mailboxes outside the post offices or the tobacconist's. The mailboxes have two slots: one for the inner city mail (in città), one for all destinations outside of the city (tutte le altre destinazioni). The closest mailbox to the University is in Via Carini.

The Vatican Post Office located in Piazza San Pietro is an alternative to the Italian system. Special Vatican stamps are needed for this service and can be bought at the Vatican City's Post Office. The Vatican postal services provide the bright blue mailboxes in Santa Maria Maggiore and San Giovanni in Laterano, with daily pick-up service (excluding holidays).

Courier Services

The American University of Rome strongly recommends that reliable private shippers, such as UPS, Federal Express or DHL, be used to send important documents overseas. There are several mailing services for overseas shipping.

Transportation and Travel

BUSES

The most commonly used form of transportation in Rome is the bus. Rome's extensive bus routes connect the University to the historic center and extend far into the surrounding suburbs. Bus stops, departure schedules and route information are found on well-marked signs throughout the city. Orange, red/silver or green ATAC city buses and trams run from 5:30am to midnight. However, be aware: these are estimated running times. Some lines provide night buses (indicated with an "N"). Due to constant route modifications, students should always check the hours of operation for a specific route before departing. For ATAC information, call 800 43 17 84.

There are two main buses that serve the University: the #44 and #75. The 44 leaves from Piazza Venezia and continues past the University toward Portuense. The 75 starts at the Stazione Termini train station, passes by the University and then continues another half-mile. Remember to validate your tickets and board the buses in the front or at the back and to exit at the middle.

TRAMS

The tram #8 runs from 5:30am to midnight. It departs from Piazza Argentina (city center) along Viale di Trastevere and the Circonvallazione Gianicolense, to Casaleto, its final stop. This tram is very useful to our students, as many of the AUR housing accommodations are located within walking distance of this tram line.

SUBWAY

Rome's subway system (Metropolitana) has two lines and is marked by red M signs on city maps. The two lines, Lines A (red) and B (blue), intersect at Termini Station. Subway Line A connects the Vatican with Anagnina, the central bus terminal for routes to other cities in Lazio. Line B extends from Rebibbia to EUR. Subway service begins at 5:30am and concludes at midnight (line A closes temporarily at 9.00 p.m.). Try to avoid the rush hours and beware of pickpockets.

TICKETS

Rome's integrated Metrobus transportation system includes buses and trams (ATAC), subway (Metro) and some other suburban trains (FS) run by the state railways. Below is a list of the integrated ticket prices as of March 2009.

CATEGORY	VALIDITY	COST €
Single ticket (BIT)	Valid for 75 minutes from the first validation on all the buses and trams and one metro ride	1
Daily ticket (BIG)	Valid until midnight of the day of the first validation on all buses, trams and metro	4
Weekend ticket (BTI)	Valid for 3 days from the first validation on all buses, trams and metro	11
Weekly ticket (CIS)	Valid for 7 days starting from the first validation on all buses, trams and metro	16
Monthly ticket (Biglietto mensile)	Valid for one month (Jan, Feb, etc.) on all buses, trams and metro	30

You must validate all of the bus tickets in the yellow boxes when boarding the first vehicle and again after the expiration (75 minutes). The monthly bus passes for students (€18) are only for Italian students residents in Rome. Do not buy the student bus pass, you must purchase the €30 pass.

Bus tickets are sold at tabacchi stores, newsstands and many coffee bars; automatic ticket machines are positioned in Metro stations and at many bus stops; and ATAC and COTRAL ticket booths are located in many Metro stations, on the lower concourse level at Termini train station and at a few main bus terminals. There is also a possibility to buy the ticket by sending an SMS message containing the word BIT to the number 48299. In return you should get a message with a virtual ticket that you can show to the ticket controllers.

You can get route maps and more information on Rome's public transportation system ATAC on the Internet at www.atac.roma.it.

TAXI SERVICE

Taxis wait at taxi stands and can also be called by phone, in which case you will be charged a small supplement. It is difficult, if not impossible, to hail a cab while it passes by. The meter starts approximately at €2 – 4; there are supplemental charges for night service (10:00pm–7:00am) and on Sundays and holidays as well as for each piece of baggage.

Avoid unmarked or unmetered cabs (numerous at airports and train stations), whose drivers actively solicit your trade and may demand astronomical fares. Use only licensed, metered yellow or white cabs, identified by a numbered shield on the side and an illuminated taxi sign on the roof. The closest taxi stand to the University is located at Piazza Rosolino Pilo, reachable by telephone at 06 5812 800. To call a cab, you can also dial 06 3570, 06 5551, 06 6645 or 06 4994.

When you call a cab, give the operator the address where you want to be picked up. Do your best to pronounce the address as clearly as possible. Stay on the line until the operator gives you the name and the number of the car (e.g. Bologna 66 or Pisa 50) and the estimated arrival time of the car (3 minuti). Then hang up and wait for the taxi to arrive. Note that taxis cannot be reserved in advance unless going to the airport or train stations early in the morning.

TRANSPORTATION TO AIRPORTS

There is a convenient nonstop train service between the Termini Train Station and Fiumicino Airport. Trains depart from Termini usually from tracks 22 or 23. Service generally begins at 5:52am and ends at 10:52pm and there is a train every half an hour. Cost for a one-way ticket is €11.00.

There is also a local train that connects Fiumicino Airport with the Trastevere train station (track 5). Cost for a one-way ticket is €5.50.

A shuttle van service is also available to and from the airport. You have to reserve the pick up in advance by calling one of the numbers below.

SHUTTLE COMPANY	PHONE
Autoline Roma	337 755 577
Airport Connection	06 338 3221

TRAINS

Italy has an extensive railway system. Train fares depend on the number of kilometers between the point of departure and destination. Passengers must pay a supplement (supplemento) for the faster or nonstop trains. The A (Altavelocita), ES (Eurostar within Italy), IC (Intercity within Italy) and EC (Eurocity outside Italy) require supplements. You must validate all tickets in the yellow machines located at the front of every track before boarding.

Train tickets and reservations can be purchased/made at Termini Station or at travel agencies. You can view timetables and also purchase tickets online by visiting the Internet website at www.trenitalia.it in English. Furthermore, a 24 hour phone line provides train information: 89 20 21. Be aware that there is a fee for this service for both landline telephones and cell phones.

TRAVEL AGENCIES

Travel agencies will help you organize your personal trips in Italy and abroad. Centro Turistico Studentesco (CTS) arranges discount travel arrangements for students and issues International Student Identity Cards (ISIC). There are also other travel agencies that can help you organize your trips and purchase plane and train tickets. Here is a list of travel agencies in the vicinity of the University.

STAYING IN HOSTELS AND HOTELS

Pest control specialists are confirming with ever-increasing frequency the international revival of the bedbug, and attribute this to the increase of international travel as well as to the banning of environmentally dangerous pesticides. Hardest hit have been the places where most travelers will be staying -- hotels, hostels, cruise vessels, resorts, etc. Bedbugs can be found in 5-star hotels as well as 12-bed hostel rooms, and these persistent little hitchhikers can also travel between suitcases stored even temporarily together.

Special travel advice from Harvard University includes, "Carefully remove the sheets and examine the head section of the bed, look at the seams of the mattress as well as both sides of the head board. If you see any small insects in either of these locations, they are probably bed bugs...Bringing your favorite pillow along on your travels may increase the chances of this pillow becoming infested with bed bugs and the transport of these bed bugs back to your home...Remember not to place your luggage next to the bed. Find a location as far from the head of the bed as possible, and store your luggage in this location. The same principal applies to portable radios and other items that could conceal bedbugs." (Other specialists advise putting your clothes and other belongings away - again, as far away from the head of the bed as possible, and most definitely not just thrown on the floor.) Harvard advises further, "If you do see bed bugs or think you have been bitten by bed bugs during your travel, it is extremely important to report this incident to the hotel management or else other unsuspecting individuals may meet the same fate."

Entomologists from the University of Kentucky describe adult bed bugs as "about 3/16-inch long and reddish-brown, with oval, flattened bodies" which are "sometimes mistaken as ticks or cockroaches" and describe the young nymphs as resembling the adults, "but smaller and lighter in color".

If you have checked your hotel mattress carefully upon checking in and found nothing, but still wake up with welts and/or find blood smears on your sheets, you may have been bitten by bed bugs. Do bear in mind when talking to hotel management that if you haven't identified the bed bug itself, there's still the possibility that you were instead bitten by the tiger mosquito which is now common in Italy.

Useful Information for Daily Life in Italy

ITALIAN BUSINESS HOURS

Italian business hours differ from the U.S. standards. Most shops and offices are open from 9:30am to 1:00pm, and re-open from 4:00pm to 7:00pm in the afternoon. There are also Monday morning and Thursday afternoon closures for some businesses. Working hours vary for each business and you should inquire about the specific schedule for any location of interest.

CURRENCY AND BANKING INFORMATION

The euro (€) is the Italian currency. The euro is the single currency of the European Monetary Union and went into circulation in the initial 12 Euro Member States on January 1, 2002.

The University highly recommends that you use the safest and most efficient method of accessing money in Italy: ATM (Bancomat) cards. Visa and Mastercard debit and credit cards are widely accepted and offer the best exchange rates. Before leaving your home country, you should check with your bank to ensure that your ATM card is authorized for international use and connected to a checking account (ATM cards connected to a savings account).

Banks are usually open Monday through Friday from 8:30am to 1:30pm. In the afternoon, the opening hours change from bank to bank but they are usually open from 2:30/3:00pm to 4:00/4:30pm. Some banks are open non-stop from 8:30am to 4:00pm and/or on Saturday mornings.

Outside most banks there is a cash dispenser (ATM) and some of them located in downtown Rome also have an automatic currency exchange machine working 24 hours a day.

Opening an Italian bank account requires a valid stay permit and a fiscal code, but usually also quite some time and high operating costs. The University does not recommend that study-abroad students open an Italian bank account.

FOOD AND SHOPPING

Italy is still a country in favor of the "slow food" culture and Italians traditionally spend a lot of time purchasing, preparing and eating good food. Therefore, instead of big supermarkets, you will find a lot of specialized "corner" shops that sell only meat, fish, bread and other food.

Supermarkets

There are also centralized supermarkets that sell a broader variety of food and other household items. There are many different food store chains and some of the supermarkets in the Trastevere and Monteverde area are the following:

STORE NAME	ADDRESS
Conad – Margherita	Via dei Colli Portuensi 560
	Via Donna Olimpia 138
	Via P. Falconieri 89/91
	C.ne Gianicolense 229

Todis DISCOUNT	Via F. Ozanam 15
	Via Natale del Grande 24/26
	Via Portuense 556/G
	Piazza Dunant 28

The Conad supermarket at Termini Station remains open 24 hours a day. There is an American convenience store in Trastevere on Via Natale del Grande, one in piazza San Cosimato 66 and Castromi located on Via Flaminia (near Piazza del Popolo) and on Via Cola di Rienzo (near the Vatican).

Open Air Markets

Shopping at the city's many open-air markets is a less expensive alternative to supermarkets. Often the quality of fruit and vegetables is also higher than in the supermarkets. Open-air markets are normally open Mon-Sat from 8:00am to 1:00pm and there are several located in the Monteverde and Trastevere area:

- Via del Vascello
- Piazza San Giovanni di Dio
- Campo dei Fiori
- Piazza San Cosimato

Of course, there is also the Porta Portese flea market every Sunday morning from 5:00am until 2:00pm in the Trastevere area (Piazza di Porta Portese). Arriving there early is essential for estimators because the best things go in the first hour. But watch out for pick-pockets and many market stallholders running a short con on unsuspecting tourists.

Shopping for Clothes

Italy is famous for fashion and experienced shoppers consider the homeland of Armani, Gucci and Valentino a true paradise. However, there are some things to be considered. One is the midday closing – as mentioned earlier, many shops close from 1:00pm until 4:00pm. Another issue is that there is still relatively little 'consumer-power' in Italy. Especially small retailers might sell faulty goods that they will not allow to return, even on the same day of purchase. Therefore, be careful, especially with spending large amounts of money or using your credit card.

Below is a list of shopping streets in Rome, starting from the most expensive to the more affordable streets:

- Spanish Steps (via Condotti)
- Via Cola di Rienzo (Vatican/Piazza Risorgimento)
- Via del Corso (from Popolo square to Piazza Venezia)
- Via Nazionale (from Piazza Repubblica)
- Viale Marconi (from Trastevere Station).

Tax Free Shopping

In Italy there are many opportunities to benefit from Tax Free shopping, with more than 18.000 retail outlets offering the service. The affiliated stores display a Tax Free Shopping logo, and store staff will guide you through the process.

The tax (VAT) on the purchases you make in Italy can be 20%, 10% or 4%, depending on what kind of goods you are buying, and it is included in the sales price. All visitors residing outside of the European Union are entitled to claim back the tax, if they spend € 154,94 or more in one shop in one day.

After deduction of the handling expense, you will receive the VAT refund in any way of your choice. You can cash your Global Refund cheque in Italy or abroad at one of more than 200 international cash refund offices.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

Italy is predominantly a Catholic country and in Rome alone there are hundreds of churches. Evening masses are organized daily and on Sundays there are normally masses at 10:00am, 11:00am and noon. You should consult your neighborhood church for detailed schedules. Rome also hosts many churches of other religions and below you can find of a list of them.

AUR currently hosts two religious clubs, the Newman Society and a Bible Study Club. The Newman Society offers weekly masses in English at the close by chapel and the Bible study group meets once a week on campus. These clubs are run by seminarians/ministers from outside the AUR community. For more information, contact Student Life.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

It is possible for students to perform community service either at the Comunita' Sant'Egidio or at the Ostello "Don Luigi di Liegro" of Caritas Diocesana di Roma, both local charity organizations. The duties include working at the soup kitchen and/or hostel once a week for approximately 4 hours. The prerequisites are minimal knowledge of Italian and minimum age of 18. Interested students should contact the Student Life Office at the beginning of the semester to get more details.

ENTERTAINMENT

Event Information

There are dozens of daily, weekly and/or monthly English and Italian publications detailing upcoming events (music, sports and entertainment) that also include lists of pubs, restaurants, markets, and dance clubs in Rome. These publications can be purchased at any newsstand. Some of them also have a website, where all events are posted.

Restaurants

Often students ask where they can find good food in Rome. The answer is: just about anywhere! Especially in Trastevere, the area is filled with lovely little corner restaurants. However, try to avoid the restaurants in the centre of Rome with eager waiters outside inviting you in for a "tourist menu". A reasonably good guide to restaurants is www.ristorantidiroma.it.

Cinema

In addition to Rome's numerous Italian language movie theaters, there are a few cinemas (listed below) that project movies in English. To consult weekly movie schedules in the Internet, go to www.romereview.com, www.internottola.net or www.trovacinema.it.

Music

There are daily musical – classical, pop, rock, jazz etc. – and other cultural events organized at the shell-shaped Auditorium designed by Renzo Piano. You can check the monthly program on the website at www.auditorium.com.

If you are interested in opera, Rome's opera season runs all year at the Teatro dell'Opera www.operaroma.it. You should take advantage of the 50% discount that is granted to all students. Many churches – like San Paolo Entro Le Mura and All Saint's – also host opera plays: the easiest way to find information is to look for posters on the streets.

Obviously there are dozens of other venues that host concerts of many types of music. Check the electronic ticket office www.ticketone.it for upcoming events!

SPORTS

Italian Soccer

Professional soccer matches are held on Saturdays and Sundays from October to May at the Stadio Olimpico, Via Dei Gladiatori. Rome has two soccer teams: Roma (red and yellow) and Lazio (light blue and white). Tickets can be bought at the Roma Stores for Roma games. One is located conveniently at the Trastevere Station and another one at Piazza Colonna. You can also purchase tickets at many tabacchi stores that carry the "Lottomatica machine" that can issue soccer tickets. Lazio team tickets are sold at "ORBIS", located on piazza dell'Esquilino, 37.

Sports Teams and Facilities

The University campus does not host sports facilities, but there are several sport centers located near the University. The Student Life Office will be happy to assist you in finding a center for your sports needs. Also, the University hosts male and female soccer teams that practice on a weekly basis each semester. In order to join the teams, look for information on the bulletin boards or contact the Student Life Office.

You should also consider the cheapest way of exercising: jogging in the beautiful parks of Rome. AUR is located close to two wonderful outdoor parks, Villa Doria Pamphili Park and Villa Sciarra that is just across the street from the University.

Beaches

You might also want to visit one of the beaches located near Rome. The closest beach is Lido di Ostia that you can easily reach by train. To get there, you should go to the Piramide train station and then take a local train to Ostia. The regular ATAC bus tickets are valid for this train. You should exit the train at any of the last four stops along the Ostia Lido. At Ostia Lido there are small stretches of free beach (spiaggia libera) where you can enter free of charge. There are also private beach resorts where you can rent a sun umbrella and a sun chair. Be prepared to pay an entrance fee to the beach resorts.

Another nice beach to visit is Santa Marinella on the Lazio coast North of Rome. To get there you can take the train from Trastevere Station and get off at Santa Marinella. It is a 45-minute ride and a day-ticket (round-trip) costs 7 euro. For more details, contact the Student Life Office.

Poem on the front cover

L'Alba

Claire Tinguely-Rubin

AUR graduate '10

The hills of Assisi bare their bones-chalk white, like bended knuckles kissed with the blessing of Santa Chiara.
Her face glows with holy melancholy,
hardened in rest like cooled wax.
The wind stirs a solitary bell that moans its waking.
This is not my savage fantasy of intimacy, of oil and incense, faded promises in handwritten letters, swarms of stars humming light on my lover's neck, wine stained lips. This is the ecstasy of hands, clasped together, eternally, in prayer.
